Descripción	The Courses will be offered in the form of lectures in English or French, with simultaneous translation into the other language, following the traditional structure of the morning sessions at the Academy. Attendees will have access in advance to an e-learning environment allowing them to benefit the most from the courses. The so-called "afternoon sessions", including among others seminars, guest lectures, the Directed Studies and doctoral networking meetings, aimed at stimulating interaction between attendees and professors and other invited eminent personalities, as well as among attendees themselves, will not be offered for practical reasons relating to the specificity of what constitutes a full session in The Hague, which simply cannot be reproduced online but has to be experienced personally. The programme consists of a General Course and a series of Special Courses. The General Course highlights developments within the field of international law, and provides attendees with the opportunity to take a step

	backwards and, through an overall view and a comprehensive reflection, grasp the main lines of the discipline around which legal thinking is structured. The Special Courses deal with a particular question or topic, and are given by professors who have studied the subject extensively and are specialists in the field. Attendees will be able to follow three lectures of 50 minutes each per day from Monday to Friday for two of the three weeks of the session: one 50 minute lecture of the General Course each day, which will be spread out over the entire 3 weeks (15 lectures in total), and 2 Special Courses lectures of 50 minutes each per week (5 lectures per course). The last week an extra third Special Course will exceptionally be added.

Profesor	Mr. Hanno Meyer
Fecha para postular	15.NOV.2020
Período	30.NOV.2020 – 18.DIC.2020
Precio	650,00 Euro
Admisión	Carta de motivación; Certificado de inglés B2

Descripción	Multinational companies like Google or Apple self-evidently act on a global stage. But even small businesses participate in international trade today. The integration of national economies and the elimination of barriers of trade no longer allow a solely national view on this development. With the growing importance of international commerce, the need for an „International Economic Law“ arises. Numerous regulations and agreements concern international trade and investment, but the legal framework of international economy remains indefinite. In this course common principles of International Economic Law will be examined by analysing leading decisions by international courts. Therefore, a substantial part of the course will be dedicated to the discussion of cases and reading materials.

Lenguaje	Inglés
Profesor	Mr. José H. Fischel de Andrade, PhD, MSt, LL.M
Fecha para postular	15.NOV.2020
Período	30.NOV.2020 – 18.DIC.2020
Precio	650,00 Euro
Admisión	Carta de motivación; Certificado de inglés B2

Descripción	This course examines the protection regime pertaining to refugees, internally displaced persons (IDPs), and stateless persons. It gives special attention to the evolving set of legal norms, institutions, and procedures that have emerged from the international community’s resolve to protect refugees and other forced migrants. The course adopts two complementary methodologies: seminars and case studies combined with presentations by the students. The seminars begin with an introduction to the international human rights and the asylum regimes, and with a review of the relevant concepts and definitions. It then continues with a historical perspective of the pre-United Nations initiatives to protect refugees and introduces the normative ethics and politics of refugee protection. That is followed by an analysis of both the legal and institutional pillars of the refugee regime, i.e. of the refugee definitions captured in various international instruments and of the protection granted by the UNHCR, respectively. The last subjects to be covered by the seminars are the normative and institutional arrangements put in place for the protection of IDPs and stateless persons. The seminars are complemented by a ‘hands-on’ methodology, namely a major case study and presentations by the students both on the state of refugee protection in their countries of origin/residence and on current significant situations (i.a. Myanmar, Syria, Venezuela, European asylum crisis, Mediterranean situation).

2.3 The European Union between Supranational Integration and National Sovereignty

Curso	The European Union between Supranational Integration and National Sovereignty
Contacto institucional	Pierre Steuer; Carmen Opolski; Sanja Müssig huwisu@hu-berlin.de

Lenguaje	Inglés
Profesor	Mr. Magnus Römer, MA; Mr. David Nonhoff, MSc
Fecha para postular	15.NOV.2020
Período	6.ENE.2021 – 26.ENE.2021
Precio	650,00 Euro
Admisión	Carta de motivación; Certificado de inglés B2
Descripción	The course will reflect upon the history and the current challenges of the European Union as the most ambitious project of supranational integration to date. While the project of integration was initially based on the quest for peace, it became clear over the years that the economic benefits for members were becoming the main incentive for further integration. But today, facing a financial and institutional crisis, the European Union is beginning to question its roots and aims. Thus, the course will explore the development of the EU as a political entity, will try to understand the reasons for the current crisis and, finally, will also try to look ahead - what is the future of European integration? In order to get a more plastic impression of the way the EU works, we will dedicate some sessions to a short simulation game on the ways decisions are taken within the EU. The course aims to offer a better understanding of how the European Union works and why the decision-making process is so difficult within this body.

Descripción	El curso se enfoca desde dos perspectivas. La primera teórica, a través de conferencias magistrales que buscan proporcionar a los participantes herramientas conceptuales sobre el arbitraje internacional tanto en materia comercial como en materia de inversión extranjera. La segunda es práctica y tiene como objetivo de un lado, analizar las opciones que ofrece el mundo virtual y sus particularidades frente al arbitraje presencial, sus virtudes y los desafíos que genera, y de otro lado, simular el desarrollo de un proceso arbitral en espacios virtuales con el fin de que los participantes puedan aplicar las herramientas conceptuales en un escenario cercano a la realidad del litigio arbitral en la actualidad. Además de conocer los puntos cardinales en torno a los cuáles gira el arbitraje internacional y sus problemas teóricos, los participantes se familiarizarán con las reglas que aplican y la manera en que funcionan plataformas arbitrales cien por ciento virtuales y podrán prepararse para asumir las actividades profesionales, en la actualidad o en un futuro inmediato, en la virtualidad.
