

Panel arrangements for the EU-VALUES Conference

Av. Condell 249, Providencia, Santiago

Thursday December 5th

14:00 - 15:30

Panel 1: IR and Democratic Values

- Cristina Teleki, Faculty of Law, Maastricht University, “De-Oligarchisation Laws in Moldova, Georgia and Ukraine”. Online
- Agnieszka Cianciara, Polish Academy of Sciences/ Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, “Countering FIMI without compromising liberal democratic values? The case of France
- Sascha Hannig Nuñez, Hitotsubashi University, “The European Foreign Information Manipulation and Influence (FIMI) Framework and its Applicability to the Study of State-sponsored Disinformation in Latin America”. Online
- Álvaro Cristian Pereira Arancibia, Institut Barcelona d'Estudis Internacionals, “The Green Angle: Emerging threats to democratic values”.

Panel 2: Elections, Polarization and the Promotion of Democracy

- Tushti Chopra, NAISAR, “Critical examination of Election laws promoting or discouraging democracy: A Study of Best and Worst Practices”. Online
- Carolina Segovia, Universidad de Santiago de Chile, “Affective polarization, support for democracy, and democratic values. A cross- and within-country analysis.”
- Miguel Angel López V, Instituto de Estudios Internacionales de la Universidad de Chile, “Voto estratégico en Chile”.
- Constanza Angélica Vásquez Riveros, Universidad de Santiago de Chile, “El rol de la cancillería como “colegislador” en la formulación de políticas públicas”.
- Régis Dandoy, Universidad San Francisco de Quito, “EU missions of election observation and their impact on democracy in Latin America”.

Panel 3: Democracy and Gender

- Melisa Deciancio, FLACSO, “International Politics and the Gender Agenda in Argentina (2019-2024)”.
- Umut Aydin, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, “Latin American Contestations of Gender and LGBTQI+ Rights Agenda”.
- Tutku Ayhan, IBEI, “Feminist Foreign Policy in the European Union: Convergences and Divergences vis-à-vis EU Gender Policies”.
- JeongHun Han, Seoul National University, Ideological and Gender difference in Accommodating Foreign Culture: An empirical analysis of ‘Hallyu’.
- Pedro Núñez, FLACSO, “Becoming citizens in secondary school in the City of Buenos Aires (Argentina). In Democracy and tensions between feminist agendas and the proposals of the “new right”

Panel 4: Migration and Human Rights

- Josefina Elena Tapia Cárcamo, Universidad de Chile, “Crisis de migrantes y refugiados en Chile 2018-2022: Las motivaciones de las Organizaciones de la Sociedad Civil y su rol institucional”.
- Stephen Phillips, Institute for Human Rights, Åbo Akademi, “Securitized responses to unwanted migration and the undermining of democratic values”.
- Chiu Kuan-Yu, Hitotsubashi University, “Reconciling the Responsibility to Protect and Instant Customary International Law: Navigating the Challenges of Humanitarian Intervention in the 21st Century”.
- Dionysia Kang, Åbo Akademi University, “Subjected to Integration: Punishment and exclusion of rights in the ‘world’s happiest country”.

Thursday December 5th

15:45 – 17:00

Panel 5: International Organisations, New Right and Democracy

- Ivana Damjanovic, Australian National University, “A Multilateral Investment Court: Towards the Rule of EU Law?”.
- Ondrej Blažo Comenius, Comenius University Bratislava, “Judicial Review of Enforcement of the Values of the European Union”.
- João Gabriel Danon Tavares, Universidade do Estado do Rio de Janeiro (UERJ), “Democracy in danger: is the popularity of new right a threat to democracy in Europe and Latin America?”.
- Giuliano Vosa, Università di Catania, The Irreducible Duality of the Rule of Law as the Forerunner of the EU Values: A Benchmark for the EU’s International Relations?, Online

Panel 6: Democracy and Higher Education

- Miranda P. Tahalele, Bina Nusantara University (BINUS), “Students’ Perception on Indonesia’s Current State of Democracy”.
- Fabíola Wüst Zibetti/ Camila Javiera Hernández Sanchez, Instituto de Estudios Internacionales Universidad de Chile, “No proliferación en el ámbito universitario: el control de conocimientos y tecnologías de uso dual ante los valores democráticos en la Unión Europea”.
- Sukmawani Bela Pertiwi, BINUS University, Students’ Perception on Indonesia’s Current State of Democracy, Presencial.

Panel 7: Democracy and the Politics of Latin America

- Veronica Hurtado, Universidad Adolfo Ibáñez, “The Impact of Organized Crime on Political Participation: A Study of Extortion and Citizen Engagement in Chile”.
- Agustina Garino, FLACSO Argentina, “El Buen Vivir en la política global: una mirada desde la experiencia boliviana (2006-2019)”.
- Luis Garrido-Vergara/ Marcos González Hernando, Universidad de Chile, “The role of expertise for the cohesion of networks: The case of the Chilean Constitutional Convention (2021-2022)”.

Friday, December 6th

9:15 – 11:00

Panel 8: EU-LA Relations (Online)

- Christian Neubacher, University of Cambridge, “Multilateral Cooperation between the European Union and Latin America”. Online
- Ramni Hangirgekar/ Dr. Shirish Kulkarni, Symbiosis Law School, “ADVANCING DEMOCRATIC VALUES THROUGH LABOR RIGHTS: ILO’S ROLE IN BRIDGING INDIA AND EU-LATIN AMERICA COOPERATION”. Online
- Santiago Ardisson, Universidad Austral, “EU-LAC bi-regional association as a global champion on democracy and rule of law”. Online
- Benedetta Arrighini, Universite' Libre de Bruxelles, “The OAS' role in defining the rule of law: past, present, and future”. Online.

Panel 9: Artificial Intelligence (Online) – Starting 9:00

- Dominik Rehbaum, European University Institute, “Rethinking democracy promotion in the pluriverse”.
- Dr. Abhishek Sharma Padmanabhan, JAIN (Deemed to be University), “An Exploration of Impact of AI on Democratic Principles and Governance: A Policy Perspective”.
- Anthony Charles de Novaes da Silva, Universidade Presbiteriana Mackenzie (UPM), “Inteligencia Artificial y Democracia: caminos para coexistencia”.
- Dr. K V K Santhy, NALSAR University of Law, “An Exploration of Impact of AI on Democratic Principles and Governance: A Policy Perspective”.
- Darío García de Viedma, IE University, “The Digital Landscape of Tomorrow and How We Can Make It Support Our Democracies”.
- Vaibhav Gaur, Mansarovar Global University, The Election Year 2024: Navigating the Democracy along with AI. Online.

Panel 10: Constitutionalism, Rule of Law and Democracy (Online)

- Dr Showkat Ahmad Wani, Åbo Akademi University, “Rising Threats to Constitutionalism and Rule of Law in India: A Critical Study”.
- Muhammad Hassan, Government College University, “Promotion of Democracy and Rule of Law: Revisiting the Lawyers' Movement in Pakistan”.
- Supruet Thavornyutikarn, Thammasat University, “Over-criminalisation by Regulators creates Distrust and hinder Democracy”.
- Thomas Aubineau, Universidad Sorbona Nueva-París, “De defectuosas a funcionales: cómo las democracias mejoradas pueden enfrentar las crisis globales / From Flawed to Functional: How Improved Democracies Can Address Global Crises”.
- Rizki Damayanti, Paramadina University, “Promoting Democracy and the Rule of Law: Implications of the 2024 European Parliament Election and the Rise of Right-Wing Parties for ASEAN's Multiculturalism, Muslim Migration, and International Relations”.

Panel 11: Conflicts, Security and Democracy

- Maximiliano Andreas Schenke Benavides, Universidad de Chile, “Guerra de Transición: Democracia y Tecnología en el Conflicto Ruso-Ucraniano”.
- Constanza Valentina Paredes Contreras, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, "Security crises as catalysts for the expansion of state power: Analyzing democratic erosion in Latin America”.
- Dr. Pramod Kumar Jawaharlal, Jawaharlal Nehru University, “Geopolitics and Energy: EU-Latin America ties in the Shadow of the Russia-Ukraine Crisis”.
- Osnerci Rafael Ramos Borges, Pontificia Universidad Católica de Valparaíso, “Globalización y fragmentación: ¿amigos o enemigos de la democracia? Reconstruyendo puentes para un futuro común”.